The Planning Council for the Standards of Quality and Objectives for Public Schools in Appomattox County met on Thursday, May 17th.

Attending the meeting, shown above, were teachers, principals, guidance counsellors, and school administrators.

Planning Council Met

The Planning Council for the Standards of Quality and Objectives for Public Schools in Appomattox County heard reports from the Special Task Force and the Vocational Education Task Force when it met on May 17 in its final meeting of the current session.

The Special Education report, prepared by Daniel Davis, Chairman and presented by George Blanton, committee member, included statistical information based on a gross screening of all students presently enrolled in school and other persons in the county between the ages of two and twenty-one, who possess a handicapping condition. Categories for classification are: educable mentally retarded, trainable mentally retarded, hearing impairment, vision impairment, emotionally disturbed, learning disabled, physically handicapped, speech handicapped, and multiple handicapped. Based on the information gained from the survey, a Five Year Plan is being formulated. This plan includes determination of necessary classes, personnel involvement, and funding from local, state, and federal sources. The plan will be submitted to the Department of Special Education, State Department of Education by July 1.

During the 1972-73 session, a special education program federally funded by Title VIB, was operated at the Appomattox Primary School. This class will continue and a class will be organized at the Appomattox Intermediate School. The latter will be funded under Title VIB with the Primary program being taken into the county budget. These classes provide for the educable mentally retarded. The LAARC school in Lynchburg provided training for the trainable mentally retarded in the county who are under twelve years of age. Transportation was provided daily to and from Lynchburg for these youngsters. Included in the Five Year Plan will be local services for all handicapped persons between the ages of two and twenty-one.

As required, a local advisory committee and a placement committee have been named to assist in preparing a comprehensive plan for the provision of appropriate special instruction and special services. The advisory committee will, also, have representation at any regional meeting which might be called.

Special Education services this session have been monitored by Mrs. Arlethia Elliott, Supervisor of Special Education and Mrs. Rosario Eiler, Assistant Supervisor. Both of these are State Department of Education personnel.

Mr. Richard Carter, recently appointed to the position of Vocational Education for Appomattox County Public Schools, reviewed the work which has been done by his Task Force during 1972-73. The Five Year Plan for Vocational Education will be presented to the School Board for approval at the June meeting. This plan will include the needs which have to be met for the state imposed Standards of Quality. Carter stated that the opening of the new high school building for 1974-75 will allow for an expansion of offerings which will include power mechanics, expanded building trades, electronics, electricity, drafting horticulture, expanded business department and occupational home economics which includes child care, clothing services, food services, and home nursing. Opportunities for adult education will be possible with the opening of the expanded facilities.

Meetings with State Department of Education personnel, have been held with Mr. Ronald McGuigan, Assistant Supervisor of Distributive Education, and Mr. Thomas Hughes, Assistant Supervisor of Industrial Arts. Mr. Carter has participated in conferences and workshops for the purpose of assisting him in formulating plans.

Mrs. Jean Hesson, Coordinator for the Standards of Quality for Appomattox County Public Schools, reported that the initiation of a Kindergarten program, and the fact that there are no unaccredited schools in the division, will eliminate detailed preparation of three required Standard of Quality reports. Other reports due by July include Instructional Materials and/or Educational Television Report and progress reports from the principals as to achievement of the Classroom Planning and Management Objective and Individual School Planning and Management Objective.

Each school in the system has established committees to study the needs of the school and to work toward achieving the Standards of Quality. These committees and the Central Planning Council are preparing plans which will upgrade the instructional program and project plans for an on-going improvement within the division.
